Rebecca Britton Letter to Judge Barnes regarding November 20th Hearing

Your Honor,

On November 20th I will be testifying as a pro se complainant. At the last hearing in West Chester I learned a great deal about courtroom decorum. I understand now that I should refrain from talking with opposing counsel; and should wait for them to state an objection, and for you to call on me to speak. I understand now that I should address you alone when responding to objections.

This is far from the manners I enjoy in colloquial settings and while I may struggle with this form of communication. I plan to try my best to conform with the rules of court and respect your courtroom.

My hope is during Wednesday's proceedings I can look to the good examples of the lawyers in the room. To put it another way, I am replicating my manner and form before your tribunal based on what I am seeing, hearing and learning in real time. I know that I can count on the experienced professionals to uphold the rules of impartiality and decorum before the tribunal.

Your Honor, I ask that you tell me if I engage in conduct that disrupts; and that you hold the more experienced professionals to a standard becoming the rules of professional conduct. Including presenting the cause, protecting the record and preserve professional integrity by patient firmness over disruptive conduct.

I would also like to ask, Your Honor, to please ensure the pro se litigants are given ample time to have our testimony taken and a reasonable opportunity to have our cases heard. To that end I am asking that you keep the pro se complainants at the top of the agenda.

Very Truly Yours,
